

National Not-For-Profit Sector Conference 2016

Innovation & Knowledge

for tomorrow's NFP

Conference Overview

9 - 10 February 2016 | The Quality Inn, Parnell, Auckland

WE INVITE YOU...

...to The National Not-for-Profit Sector Conference in 2016, two days jam-packed with fresh ideas and thinking that puts you at the centre of the conversation about strengthening NFP organisations and the NFP sector.

It is a unique opportunity to present a new way of being a Not-For-Profit. You may disagree with some of it. You may love some ideas and get into huge arguments about the validity of others. The speakers will make you think, evaluate and take a step into some unknown territories and hope you will be inspired by what you find there. We believe that the speaker line-up is seriously good – made up of practitioners, board members and big-thinkers.

Innovation, the topic for day one, will challenge the status quo in the not-for profit sector and present fresh ideas that are starting to emerge and gather strength. We will spotlight smart, innovative Not-For-Profits that are finding new ways to connect with partners and their communities in order to build stronger organisations.

We will look at new ways of funding that step away from the dependency cycle and breathe on their own. Keynote speaker Matthew Tukaki of the Australian National Coalition for Suicide Prevention will lead off this day of motivational and empowered thought leaders.

Powerhouse, on day two, is a serious learning day. We bring you three key streams of thinking facilitated by sector experts that cover The Strategy, The People and The Money.

We recommend that delegates choose to do deep learning within a workshop stream to build skills but are free to jump within streams if they prefer to gain a wider overview.

CONFERENCE SPEAKERS

We have selected our speaking panel in 2016 to challenge and inspire you.

They are practitioners of long service and high standing in the sector, trusted opinion leaders – NFP heroes – and they will make you think, evaluate and take thought provoking steps into unknown territories.

They will be blunt and you may not like all you hear, but they will provoke an extensive exchange of ideas leading to a shared understanding of the most promising and critically important directions to achieve financial security and sustainability in the Not-For-Profit sector.
